placed on the Company's franchise was excessive, in that the property of the Company in the Bronx, Markattan and Richmond was assessed last year at only $55,000.

The New York and New Jersey Telephone Company was also represented by ex-Judge Cohen. He said that this company conducted its telephone business in the States of New York and New Jersey, but that more than half of its entire mileage was in the latter State. He said the valuation placed on the franchise in Greater New York was an increase of $85,000, which was excessive.

sugars, which made the transaction all the more incomprehensible. It was also regarded as effectually disposing of recent rumors that a settlement of the long prevailing trade war was at hand. President H. O. Havemeyer, of the American Sugar Refining Company, had this to say of the Arbuckle move:

"The American Company will not meet the prices while the raw market remains as it is. To do so would certainly be at variance with the declared policy of the company to keep it financially strong to meet any form of competition which may present itself, of which this morning's action on the part of the company to keep it financially strong to meet any form of competition which may present itself, of which this morning's action on the part of the competition is up to the present time most formidable."
